Macaulay Honors College Junior Wins Critical Language Scholarship

(April 4, 2016, New York, NY) - Macaulay Honors College at The City University of New York announces Alina Shen '17 (City College) has won a Critical Language Scholarship (CLS) to study Mandarin in Taiwan. CLS is an intensive overseas language study program sponsored by the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. It is part of a U.S. government effort to dramatically expand the number of Americans studying and mastering critical foreign languages.

Shen is a heritage speaker of Mandarin who grew up speaking the language but says she has forgotten it over time. Although she had been studying Chinese for three hours every Saturday for around ten years with varying levels of rigor and formality, Shen felt she needed more focus to help her community. The Fresh Meadows, Queens native applied to the CLS program after becoming involved with various programs and offices in Chinatown and Flushing.

"I often found myself unable to communicate to Mandarin speakers when trying to discuss topics like civic engagement, education systems, and labor organizing, so learning Mandarin became all the more important for communication and community organizing," said Shen.

The Macaulay junior will spend 10 weeks gaining more proficiency in Mandarin as a result of the CLS program. Shen is also a William R. Kenan scholar and Horace W. Goldsmith Scholar.
